What is Affiliate Marketing?

Affiliate Marketing is the revenue sharing between the website owner and the online trader. This Web Partnership model is definitely the most profitable online money-making method on the internet. The basis of the system is based on the payment of commission of websites that want to sell products (eg e-books, computer programs) to other sites which are affiliated to them in return for site traffic directed to them. These Affiliate sites refer users to the relevant commercial site in accordance with the agreement made. As a basis of affiliate agreements; It is a kind of commission agreement which determines the payments to be made in return of the user traffic and trade that the affiliated sites will send to the commercial site through banner or links.

Affiliate Marketing

In general, there are three ways to make money through affiliate marketing;

Pay Per Sale (Cost Per Sale): Amazon or e-Bay affiliate contracts are an example of this. In accordance with this contract, Amazon will pay a certain amount to the affiliate partner for each sale in exchange for shopping for the customer sent to Amazon by the affiliate site.

Pay Per Click (Cost Per Click): According to this program, the commercial site is affiliated to the affiliate who clicks on the link to the affiliate partner makes a certain payment. For this, users do not need to do any shopping.

Cost Per Lead: Commercial sites pay affiliate partners depending on the number of users. Many commercial sites require customers to fill in some forms and sell this information to another company as user capacity. For internet users, affiliate marketing is a very important revenue gate. You can achieve very high earnings by placing referral links that are tailored to you by your business site on your own website. Having a well-prepared website does not mean that you will certainly be successful in affiliate marketing. But you do not need to be a website owner.
